- · update your smoking status.

Before you start...

Fill this form out in BLOCK letters using a black or blue pen. Write X to mark boxes.

You must complete Sections 1 and 6, but only those Sections from 2 to 5 that you want to change.

The duty to take reasonable care

When you apply to change your insurance cover, you are treated as if you are applying for cover under an individual consumer insurance contract and this duty to take reasonable care applies. A person who applies for cover under a consumer insurance contract has a legal duty to take reasonable care not to make a misrepresentation to the Insurer before the contract of insurance is entered into.

A misrepresentation is a false answer, an answer that is only partially true, or an answer which does not fairly reflect the truth.

This duty also applies when extending or making changes to existing insurance, and reinstating insurance.

If you do not meet your duty

If you do not meet your legal duty, this can have serious impacts on your insurance. Under the Insurance Contracts Act 1984 (Cth) there are a number of different remedies that may be available to the Insurer. They are intended to put the Insurer in the position it would have been in if the duty had been met. For example, the Insurer may:

- avoid the cover (treat it as if it never existed);
- · vary the amount of the cover; or
- vary the terms of the cover.

Whether the Insurer can exercise one of these remedies depends on a number of factors, including:

- whether reasonable care was taken not to make a misrepresentation. This depends on all of the relevant circumstances;
- what the Insurer would have done if the duty had been met
   – for example;
- whether it would have offered cover, and if so, on what terms whether the misrepresentation was fraudulent; and
- in some cases, how long it has been since the cover started.

Before any of these remedies are exercised, the Insurer will explain the reasons for its decision, how to respond and provide further information, and what you can do if you disagree.

Guidance for answering the questions in this form

You are responsible for the information provided to the Insurer. When answering questions, please:

- Think carefully about each question before you answer.
   If you are unsure of the meaning of any question, please ask us before you respond.
- Answer every question.
- Answer truthfully, accurately and completely. If you are unsure about whether you should include information, please include it.
- Review your application carefully before it is submitted. If someone else helped prepare your application (for example, your adviser), please check every answer (and if necessary, make any corrections) before the application is submitted.

Please note that there may be circumstances where the Insurer later investigates whether the information given to it was true. For example, it may do this when a claim is made.

Changes before your cover starts

Before your cover starts, the Insurer may ask you whether the information that has been given as part of your application for insurance remains accurate or whether there has been a change to any of your circumstances. As any changes might require further assessment or investigation, it could save time if you let us or the Insurer know about any changes when they happen.

If you need help

It's important that you understand your obligations and the questions that are being asked. Please contact us for help if you have difficulty understanding the process of obtaining insurance or answering any questions.

Please also let us know if you're having difficulty due to a disability, understanding English or for any other reason – we're here to help and can provide additional support.

2. Tailor your Income Protection insurance Update your insured salary Your salary is used to calculate the cost and amount of your Income Protection insurance. If you increase your salary, the cost of your insurance will usually be higher. If you decrease your salary, the cost will generally be lower. You can choose a lower amount than your actual salary to reduce your insurance cost. If you increase your salary you won't be covered for pre-existing illnesses on the increased portion unless the increase is due to a genuine employer documented job change or promotion or you increase it within 60 days of the date on your insurance welcome letter. If you make a successful claim the amount we'll pay you will be based on the lesser of your insured salary and the salary calculated in accordance with the policy terms. In most cases this is the actual salary you earned over the 12 months prior to becoming disabled. You won't receive benefits on any overstated salary you didn't actually earn. The salary you choose will remain in place until you advise us otherwise. It's important to keep your salary details with us up to date so you receive the correct benefit and pay the correct premiums. If you don't tell us your salary, we'll use a fortnightly sum insured of $2,600, including a superannuation contribution component, to calculate the cost of your insurance. To find out more, read the information below titled How to calculate your salary. What annual salary do you want to record for your Income Protection insurance? How to calculate your salary The salary used to calculate your insurance benefit is: If you're employed: what you earn before tax is taken out (gross salary) in the 12 months immediately prior to the date you become disabled. It includes allowances, packaged fringed benefits, commissions, bonuses and overtime payments. If you've worked for an Industry Employer for less than 12 months, your salary will be based on your average salary taken from the commencement of employment to the date you became disabled. If you're self-employed: your gross income from personal exertion in the 12 months immediately prior to the date you become disabled less your business expenses in earning that income. Your salary doesn't include the super contributions your employer pays for you. Change your waiting period If you choose a shorter time between when you become ill or hurt (and unable to work) and when your insurance benefit starts, the cost of your insurance will usually be higher. If you choose a longer time, the cost will generally be lower, however, if you're changing from a 60 day waiting period up to two years, as per the Policy Extension Option, the cost will stay the same. Change the waiting period on your Income Protection to: (Mark X in one box) 14 days (with a two year 30 days 60 days 90 days 120 days benefit period only) Up to two years, as per the Policy Extension Option. You can only choose this option within 90 days of your insurance starting or within 60 days of becoming disabled. Have you smoked tobacco or any other substance in any form in the past 12 months? Yes. If you're a new employer-sponsored member, you'll be covered for pre-existing illnesses and the No 20% smoker loading won't apply if you change your waiting period to 30 days within 60 days of the date on your insurance welcome letter. Change your benefit payment period If you choose to have a maximum benefit period of five years your premiums will be 80% more than the two year benefit payment period. Change the benefit payment period to: (Mark 'X' in one box) Two years Five years. This isn't available if you already have a 14 day or two year waiting period. Have you smoked tobacco or any other substance in any form in the past 12 months? Yes. If you're a new employer-sponsored member, you'll be covered for pre-existing illnesses and the Nο 20% smoker loading won't apply if you change your benefit period to five years within 60 days of the date on your insurance welcome letter.
